For the Love of All Creatures: The Story of Grace in Genesis by William Greenway. The author discusses the creation and flood narratives in Genesis from a creature-loving perspective, inspiring care for creation. He also reveals sophisticated understandings of faith, grace, and evil vital for 21st century spirituality. C. 2015 221 Gre

Rebuilding the Foundations: Social Relationships in Ancient Scripture and Contemporary Culture by Walter and John Brueggemann. In this unique volume, father-and-son team Walter and John Brueggemann take a close look at our fractured American society and suggest ways for improvement. Using six themes identified by some scholars as the moral foundations of society - care, fairness, liberty, loyalty, authority, and sanctity - they examine the unsustainable patterns of our contemporary society and reveal how those patterns played out in the ancient world of the Old Testament. A Gathering of Larks: Letters to Saint Francis from a Modern-Day Pilgrim by Abigail Carroll. These letters--part devotion, part historical biography, part contemporary engagement, and part inspiration--reveal Carroll's curiosity and wonder about Francis. As beautiful as it is insightful, alight with a pilgrim's growing sense of discovery, A Gathering of Larks has both range and depth that will uplift readers and challenge them to better understand this singular saint and how he might speak to and shape their way of living in today's world. The Givenness of Things: Essays by Marilynne Robinson who delivers an impassioned critique of our contemporary society while arguing that reverence must be given to who we are and what we are: creatures of singular interest and value, despite our errors and depredations. These seventeen essays examine the ideas that have inspired and provoked one of our finest writers throughout her life. "The Givenness of Things" is a necessary call for us to find wisdom and guidance in our cultural heritage, and to offer grace to one another. C. 2015 800. Rob

The Creation: An Appeal to Save Life on Earth by E. O. Wilson. The book that launched a movement: "Wilson speaks with a humane eloquence which calls to us all" (Oliver Sacks), proposing a historic partnership between scientists and religious leaders to preserve Earth's rapidly vanishing biodiversity. Days of Awe and Wonder: How to be a Christian in the 21st Century by Marcus J. Borg.

Now, two years after the liberal theologian's death, comes The Days of Awe and Wonder, a selection of his writing, including many never before published works, that explores the Christian faith and what it means to be a Christian in the twenty-first century. Provocative and uplifting, this anthology illuminates Borg's explorations of the miraculous and wonderful, his understanding of conviction and fulfillment, and his contention that we must keep an open mind and question assumptions and certainties in all our religious journeys. Grounded: Finding God in the World; a Spiritual Revolution by Diana Butler Bass. Bass brings her understanding of the latest research and studies and her deep knowledge of history and theology to Grounded. She cites news, trends, data, and pop culture, weaves in spiritual texts and ancient traditions, and pulls it all together through stories of her own and others' spiritual journeys. Grounded observes and reports a radical change in the way many people understand God and how they practice faith. In doing so, Bass invites readers to join this emerging spiritual revolution, find a revitalized expression of faith, and change the world. C. 2015 231 Bas

Christianity, Climate Change, and Sustainable Living by Nick Spencer. Spencer, White, and Vroblesky offer serious Christian engagement with the emerging issue of Sustainable Consumption and Production. They offer practical conclusions that explore and explain what can be done at the personal, community, national, and international levels to ensure that next generations will have the resources necessary for life. Firmly rooted in the good news of the Christian faith, this is, above all, a constructive and hopeful book that offers a realistic vision of what the future could and should look like. Trouble I've Seen: Changing the Way the Church Views Racism by Drew G. I. Hart. From the book jacket: "Drew Hart masterfully cuts through all the platitudes and good intentions to reach the fleshy, beating heart of true justice. An unforgettable read, Trouble I've Seen deserves the church's full attention and considered action. It certainly challenged and changed me." [Rachel Held Evans] "You won't be comfortable with this read but you will be led into the deep waters of the social dilemma and reality of the race matrix. In the end, the church can be a bridge over these troubled waters." [Efrem Smith]. C. 2016 277 Har

Fortress Commentary on the Bible. The Old Testament and Apocrypha. The Fortress Commentary on the Old Testament and Apocrypha presents a balanced synthesis of current scholarship. The contributors bring a rich diversity of perspectives to the task of connecting historical critical analysis of the Scripture with sensitivity to theological, cultural, and interpretive issues arising in our encounter with the text. The volume includes introductory articles, section introductions, and individual book articles that explore key sense units through three lenses: The Text in Its Ancient Context, The Text in the Interpretive Tradition, The Text in Contemporary Discussion. Comprehensive and useful for preaching, teaching, and research. C. 2014 R 220.7 For

Falling Upward: A Spirituality for the Two Halves of Life by Richard Rohr (Published 04/2011)

In Falling Upward, Fr. Richard Rohr seeks to help readers understand the tasks of the two halves of life and to show them that those who have fallen, failed, or "gone down" are the only ones who understand "up." Most of us tend to think of the second half of life as largely about getting old, dealing with health issues, and letting go of life, but the whole thesis of this book is exactly the opposite. What looks like falling down can largely be experienced as "falling upward." In fact, it is not a loss but somehow actually a gain.

This important book explores the counterintuitive message that we grow spiritually much more by doing wrong than by doing right. 248.4 Roh
